PAW PAW, MICHIGAN, OCTOBER 15.

OHIO.

Exit Hoadly.--It will be Governor Foraker.

John Sherman will be the next Senator.

Special Dispatch to the NORTHERNER.

COLUMBUS, O., Wednesday, Oct. 15.

Ohio republican by about fifteen thousand plurality. Legislature also republican.

DETROIT is chuckling because the recent school census indicates a population 150,000 souls. One of these days that burg will be assuming city airs.

THE supreme court has pronounced the Egan election bill unconstitutional, and the Detroit democracy are jubilant over the prospect of saving their 3,000 fraudulent votes.

AS THERE was every reason to expect, Judge Chambers of Detroit, has declared the oleomargarine law unconstitutional. There is little doubt but the supreme court will sustain the decision.

THE two principal planks in the platform of the New York democrats are prohibition and free trade. Prohibition of the manufacture and sale of artificial butter, and free-trade in whiskey. They come out strong on these two points.

A. J. SHAKESPEARE has been appointed postmaster at Kalamazoo, and the democrats of that city are all torn up with harmony. Strange that so much harmony should result in such great discord. A kind of musical paradox, as it were.

TRUTH is stranger than fiction. Two saloonists have actually been convicted and sentenced in John Miner's court, in the city of Detroit, for keeping their places of business open after hours. And now the saloon men of the metropolis are wondering if the heavens will fall.

WE have received No. 2 of Vol. I. of the Michigan Horticulturist, edited by that noted fruit man, Chas. W. Garfield, and published by the W. H. Burr Publishing Co., Detroit, Mich. It is filled with matter of great interest to fruit growers, among which we notice an able and interesting article on the "Warden Grape" by our friend Judge Lawton.

THE Massachusetts State, the new republican organ, is very frank. It says: "The republican party is a party in opposition, and the duty of a party in opposition is to necessarily assume an attitude of hostile criticism, and sometimes a politically wrong one, toward the party in power." We have never had any doubt that this was the republican doctrine, but it is well to have it laid down authoritatively.

Whether such is the republican doctrine or not, it certainly was democratic practice, for more than a quarter of a century, and no more faithful exponent of such practice could be found during all those years, than the Detroit Free Press.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND has pardoned Henry J. Davis, a District of Columbia policeman who was convicted, and sentenced to the state prison, for assault upon a woman, with intent to kill. The excuse for the pardon is that Davis was drunk at the time he committed the assault. The president is consistent with principles of his party which declares by its platforms and by the mouths of its leaders, that there is no harm in drinking. Courts do not hold that drunkenness is an excuse for crime. In this respect they are behind the more advanced principles of the democrat party.

WHATEVER may be said or thought about other political parties, the democratic party, by natural selection and affiliation, by its platform and by the utterances of its leaders, is firmly wedded to the whiskey interest, as the clans in the Ohio and New York platforms and in other states abundantly testify. A few evenings since, Governor Hoadly, the great Ohio standard bearer of that party, declared that drinking was not an evil, that he was opposed to prohibition, that he was opposed to taxation of the traffic, that he was in favor of license and a low license at that. That was the doctrine the governor dignified by the name of personal liberty, a doctrine that, being translated and condensed, may be concisely expressed in two words "free whiskey." Such is the well defined position of the great democratic party on the greatest moral question of the day; and yet thousands of so-called temperance men will lend their aid to that party and rejoice in its success.

A "Michigan Democrat of prominence," who doesn't want his name known, as he is probably a candidate for office himself, says that Dr. Pratt was endorsed for the Kalamazoo postoffice by nine-tenths of the patrons of the office, but Mr. Dickinson and Judge Powers enlisted Vice President Hendricks in Shakespeare's behalf in return for their efforts to nominate the eminent kicker against civil service last summer. The Democrat also charges that Mr. Dickinson is having all the Democratic editors appointed to important offices, and cites the cases of Swineford, Lacey, Van Antwerp and Sanford to prove his position.

THERE are 10,000 wind mills in Holland. This is pretty good for a small country, but it doesn't begin to compare with America during a political campaign.

Donnybrook Fair.

Through the mythical eyes of Jonah Barrington we can see the fair itself unshorn of its splendors. Here are tents formed of long wattles in two rows, inclined together at the top; over which for covering are spread patchwork quilts, winnowing-sheets, rugs, blankets, old petticoats, secured by ropes of hay. A broom-head or well-worn brush, a watchman's discarded lantern, surmounted by variegated rags torn to ribbons, serve the purpose of the tavern's ivy-bush; a rusty saucepan or old pot signifies that eating as well as drinking may be had. Down the middle what a day since had been doors and now are tables rest on mounds of clay, and benches, swaying under the sitters when their equilibrium becomes uncertain, run along supported in like manner. "When the liquor got the mastery of one convivial fellow," says Sir Jonah, "he would fall off, and the whole row generally followed his example; perhaps ten or even twenty shillelagh boys were seen on their backs kicking up their heels, some able to get up again, some lying quiet and easy, singing, roaring, laughing, or cursing; while others still on their legs were drinking and dancing and setting the whole tent in motion, till all began to long for open air, and a little wrestling, leaping, cudgeling, or fighting upon the green grass. The tent was then cleared out and prepared for a new company." A delightful aroma, in itself nourishing, filled the June air--mingled turf, whiskey, steaming potatoes, Dublin Bay herring, salt beef, and cabbage. At dusk a dozen fiddlers and pipers would strike up and a row of perhaps a hundred couples work away their jig-steps 'till they actually fell off breathless. Matrons would bring the 'childer to this paradise of cakes and simple toys, and those infantine revelers would assist the musicians with pop-gun and drum and whistle. Under the summer moon young men and maidens would utter their vows and fix the day for going before Father Kearny, who declared that 'more marriage, were celebrated in Dublin the week after Donnybrook Fair than in any two months during the rest of the year.'--The Century.

One of the interesting features of the November Harper's will be some personal recollections of the late Lord Houghton, from the pen of Hon. John Bigelow, who weaves into his paper a number of interesting anecdotes of other great men in the acquaintance of Lord Houghton, among them Louis Napoleon, Gladstone, and our own Bryant.

There are scores of persons who are suffering from some form of blood disorder or skin disease, such as Scrofula, Boils, etc., etc. After a practical test, Covert & Bartram assert that Acker's Blood Elixir will certainly cure all such diseases, including Syphilis and Rheumatism. It is not a patent nostrum, but a scientific preparation. They guarantee it.

Test drilling for the St. Clair River tunnel is progressing favorably. Twelve holes have been drilled with satisfactory results.

A Walking Skeleton.

Mr. E. Spangler, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., writes: "I was afflicted with lung fever and abscess on the lungs, and reduced to a walking skeleton. Got a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which did me so much good that I bought a dollar bottle. After using three bottles, found myself once more a man, completely restored to health, with a hearty appetite, and a gain in flesh of 48 lbs." Call at C. L. Eaton's Drug Store and get a free trial bottle of this certain cure for all Lung Diseases. Large bottles $1.00.

The creamery at Ovid uses cream from 1,000 to 1,200 cows, and up to Sept 1, the average daily output had been 800 pounds during the season. Since the concern started eight months ago, it has made and sold $50,000 worth of butter.
